

Licensed NLP Practitioner™

The Romney Centre, Southampton, Hants

Unlike other methodologies that teach you what to do, NLP teaches you how. How to take the techniques taught, to put them together to design bespoke solutions to help people develop skills that are transferable. Whether you want to learn NLP for personal or self development; for business; to further a career in therapy, coaching or counseling and/or you want to learn how to use these techniques with children as a parent, teacher, medical professional or any other child centered professional.

Dr Richard Bandler (co-creator of NLP) described NLP as an attitude of curiosity a methodology that leaves behind it a trail of techniques. Many people have said learning NLP is like learning how to run your own brain.

NLP is about the study of excellence and should come with a warning as NLP can change your life. As you learn how to control your mind, letting go or fears how to overcome obstacles and improve your performance on all levels.

This is a licensed program, only those who attend one of Dr Bandlers Licensed courses are entitled to call themselves a Licensed Practitioner of NLP™. Your certificate will be co-signed by Dr Richard Bandler and issued by the first Society of NLP.

Training Syllabus

At the end of your training you will have an understanding and ability to use the basic skills, techniques and patterns and concepts of NLP including:

- a. How to change the way you feel, to access the right state for you
- b. How to use language more elegantly, communicate more effectively and be more persuasive
- c. How to change unwanted behaviours and beliefs in yourself and others
- d. How to access and use the power of your unconscious
- e. How to remove fears and phobias

NLP is experiential, you will have plenty of opportunities to explore the techniques for yourself in the class.

The skills you learn are transferable and you will learn how to put it all together in a way that suits you.
